MACKEREL
ARRIVALS.

Three More at New York and Old Point Comfort.

SECOND FARE OF SCH. GRAYLING

Schs. George F. Edmunds and Natalie B. Nickerson Also In.

A special to the TIMES from New York reports the arrival this morning at Fulton dock of sch. George F. Edmunds, Capt. Stephen Cole, with 75 barrels of fresh medium mackerel.

Another dispatch to the TIMES reports the arrival at Old Point Comfort, Virginia, this morning, of schs. Grayling, Capt. Reuben Cameron, with 28 barrels and the gasoline auxiliary sch. Natalie B. Nickerson, Capt. Eben T. Lewis, of Boothbay, with 57 barrels of fresh medium mackerel. This is the second trip for the Grayling, she being the first vessel to land two trips this spring.

A letter to the TIMES from New York states that the mackerel arriving are fine looking stock and of good selling size. The dealers think, judging from the size of the fish, that there will be a bountiful supply this spring.

The big fare of sch. Harry M. Graham was taken off Cape Henry, in 20 fathoms of water. Capt. Seavey reports a big body of fish there and the big catch he made was only a piece of a big school. The Graham took out $2000 worth of fish Monday and expected to finish up yesterday. The stock will be close to $4000.

The mackerel in New York today brought 15 and 20 cents apiece.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S GOOD TRADE.

Portugal Gives Her Big Cod Concessions for a Small Recompense.

Late advices from St. John's, Newfoundland, announced that Premier Bond has secured a concession from Portugal under the terms of which Newfoundland codfish will be admitted to the Portuguese markets at a rate 20 cents lower than at present. This concession will increase Newfoundland's shipments of codfish to Portugal by 150,000 hundredweight annually. The only concession Portugal requires in return is the reduction by one-half of the present duty on port wine, involving a loss of only $2000 a year to Newfoundland.

FIRST IN 20 YEARS.

Newburyport Will Have a Vessel in the Mackerel Fishery.

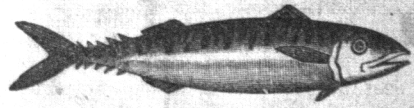

The steamer Joppaite, of Newburyport, Capt. George G. Short, will sail in a few days for New York to engage in "dragging" for mackerel off Sandy Hook. This is the first Newburyport vessel to engage in the mackerel fisheries for fully 20 years, the last one being Sch. Sarah E. Babson, Capt. James Bradley. He will carry a crew of seven men, all but one, a Gloucester man who will act as pilot, being Newburyporters.

From Yesterday's Late Edition.

TWO MORE TRIPS.

Schs. Constellation and Saladin
Are at New York.

First Has 150 Barrels and the
Other 70 Barrels.

A special to the TIMES from New York this afternoon states that there are two more arrivals of mackerel at Fulton Market, the new auxiliary schooner Constellation, Capt. Thaddeus Morgan, having 150 barrels, and the new auxiliary schooner Saladin, Capt. Flar McKown, with 70 barrels.

The New York market was reported firm, prices being 15 and 20 cents.

This is the second trip this season for the Constellation and the maiden trip of the Saladin.
